New For Symbian OS

Skype (free; www.skype.com) is now available for Sony Ericsson's Satio, Vivaz, and Vivaz Pro phones using either Wi-Fi or a mobile data connection. In addition to making or receiving calls, users of these Symbian phones can also send and receive instant messages and share pictures, videos, and other files with their Skype friends. You also can import names and numbers from the address book in your Sony Ericsson phone.

SPB Mobile Shell ($29.95; www.spbsoftwarehouse.com) from SPB Software offers users a way to customize the interface on their Symbian phones through the use of multiple home screens. The 3.5.5 update lets you create shortcuts to the files you use most, set up a personalized call button, and add a media player widget. The interface features a 3D carousel you can control using finger gestures, and you can add as many widgets to the home screens as there is room on the screen. The 3.5.5 update is memory optimized to use 10Mb less RAM. ▲
